

My Two Cent's Worth

Horrors in our midst

Policing is a dangerous job. We all know that. Even those who dislike us, like politicians, the press, the black activists, Rahm, some local mayors, and celebrities. All in their own little universes who do nothing but whine, condemn, and spout off about us, until of course they need us.

But we continue to protect and serve all the a-holes among us. And frequently we become victims of the most horrible who roam the streets.

Case in point: Luis Bracamontes, an illegal alien and a simply horrible human being. He killed two police officers at a Motel 6 parking lot in Sacramento, CA. Deputies Danny Oliver and Michael Davis Jr. were killed by the #1 a-hole back in 2014.

He is on trial now and everyone, including he and his attorneys, admit his guilt. They are looking for an insanity plea which the judge denied because, according to the defense, you must be insane. As all of us know in law enforcement, to be a cop killing homicidal a-hole, you're just a cop-killing, homicidal a-hole. Simple stuff.

Luis has repeatedly admitted he shot both officers and in open court with a friendly smile, says stuff like this: "I wish I had killed more of the mother---!" And, "I will break out soon and I will kill more, whoever gets in front of me, there's no need for a fing trial."

He, in his brilliance, has also told the judge to get f'd and made threats to the jurors and the families of the slain officers.

They should take him out and hang him just because the families had to endure hearing this from this devil's disciple. So he is undergoing two trials simultaneously. One for guilt and one for the death penalty. Okay.

And remember, he is an illegal immigrant. He shouldn't be here. It's the ongoing fight that shouldn't ever be a question, but is one, for the most part, hidden by the media.

No, most illegal immigrants are not a-holes, but this one most certainly is.

Vita é bella.
