

My Two Cent's Worth

By: Joseph Andalina

Always in November

Summer is over and fall soon will be, too. Time to get ready for the cold, dark days of winter.

Tofu Day and Santa will be here soon and the new year will bring us endless political nonsense. As it looks now, 2018 will subject us to more Bruce Rauner ads for governor that one man or woman should ever be subjected to.

So for a year until next November, when the election nears, we will hear why we should vote for another super-rich politician who will demand that we follow his wealthy agenda.

I'm not having any of it. Rauner the Bruce has demonstrated over and over again that he is not a friend of public sector workers. He of the $91,000,000 earnings for last year begrudges you a worthy retirement and collective bargaining protections.

All for the taxpayers of Illinois who will not see one dime in their pockets if he gets his bs turnaround agenda eventually passed.

Hell, he can give us some of his $91 million and save the taxpayers some coin. But what's his is his. Doesn't bother me, but don't take away from us grunts.

Now, I'm not saying that any of the democratic hopefuls would be any better, but Rauner? Please do some homework.

Rauner's base is disappearing, his democratic colleagues distrust him, he despises unions and he now vows to fight for local governments to have the right to be a right-to-work community.

Nothing but bad there, folks. Turn off the noise and forget his propaganda. He ain't no good if you're a public service employee.

Enjoy the onset of winter.

Vita é bella.