

My Two Cent's Worth

By: Joseph Andalina

Three little words

Words that every man doesn't want to hear... "You're a creep." However, if spoken by Ms. Hillary, one can assume that's not a bad thing. Mrs. Wannabe your president failed miserably to Donald Trump as we all know ad-nauseum.

But I found it amusing that in her 1,047-page memoir she let out an audio snippet where she uttered the above words as he gave her the stink-eye during the campaign.

She also stated she thought "he made my skin crawl." Oh, the shame. Politicians are so full of it. Anything for an excuse to losing is fair game, and whatever one can do to make a buck. I should say she is a shame. And to prove my point, she is having a talk in Chicago where seats start at $45. Other cities are more, but if you want to meet and greet, you will fork over $2,400. So I ask you, who exactly is the creep?

Is she, however, any different than "Rauner the Bruce" when he said and says Illinois is broken and together we can fix it. (Har de har har.) He actually sent me, via US mail, a plea for money. He who makes $50 million a year wants my stinking 20 bucks?

No, thanks, Mr. well-to-do, who wants to deprive me and all our retired types a pension so I can live on Alpo and Purina in my old age. The nerve.

And are the other career politicians on both sides of the chamber any better? Fighting for you — with their hands in your pockets when we aren't looking. Taxes are huge in Illinois. Anyone with eyes can see that, but we keep asking for more by electing these charlatans.

Just keep that in mind that there are no candidates desiring to put money back in your wallet. Hide it because if they see it, it's gone. Especially if you're a public-sector worker.

And in closing, a recent editorial in a liberal newspaper asks another three-word questions. "Where are you?" This is where are you, Mr. Obama, because the sycophants are missing a president who didn't really seem to like cops, either. I'm sure we all will be so joyous when we learn where our ex-pres has been hiding and if he returns to save the nation.

I'd like to see Hillary lost in the woods, Obama do a Bush and keep away from politics, and Rauner to lose his millions in an unsuccessful run in 2018.

In the meantime, depending on who is calling you creepy — that may not be all bad.

Vita é bella.
